

WST Learning Community 2019-2020 Application

Women, Science, and Technology (WST) Learning Community

The Georgia Tech Women, Science, and Technology Learning Community is co-sponsored by the Center for the Study of Women, Science, and Technology (WST Center) and the Georgia Tech Department of Housing. The goals of the Women, Science, and Technology Learning Community include enhancing the academic and professional development of its resident women graduate and undergraduate students, who may be in any major, and enabling a research network connecting faculty and students. The Women, Science, and Technology Learning Community offers programs addressing educational and professional issues for students in all fields, including

1. Mentoring and research partnership with faculty members
2. Informal lunch discussions with faculty, staff, and administrators
3. Monthly dinners with guest speakers from the Georgia Tech community and beyond

The Women, Science, and Technology Learning Community welcomes Georgia Tech community members to attend WST Center events such as campus receptions, lectures, and research panels. Applicants for residence in the WST Learning Community must complete this application and also all required Georgia Tech Department of Housing forms to apply to live in the Women, Science, and Technology Learning Community housing in 4th St. (Goldin House or Stein House).

If you have any questions, please email carol.colatrella@lmc.gatech.edu.

WST Mentor

Choose one of the three mentoring options below: [Required]

Valid input:

- Select only one choice.

I am selecting a woman faculty member whom I already know. I agree to meet with this WST mentor three times each term if it is convenient for her.

I request that Dr. Colatrella assign a woman faculty member in a closely related discipline as my WST mentor.

I am not interested in selecting or being assigned a woman faculty mentor at this time.
